gallery

> a robot walks into a cave
> it takes its dyed hand and presses it against the wall > do you think it left a print?
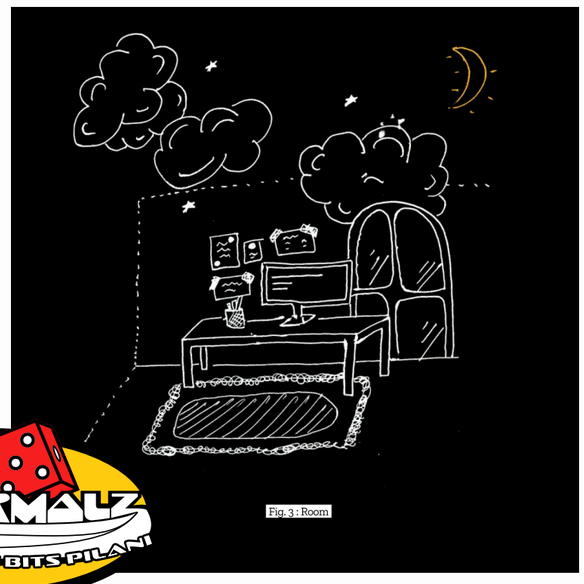
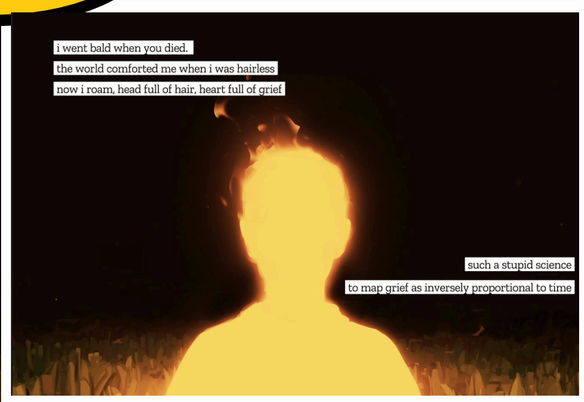
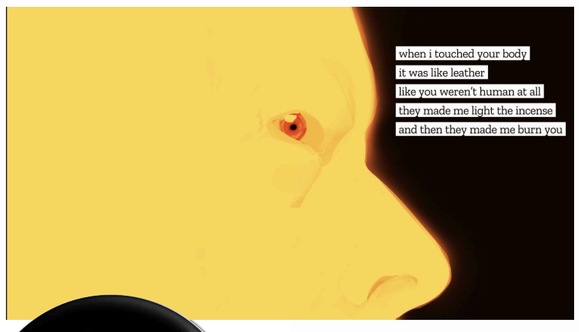
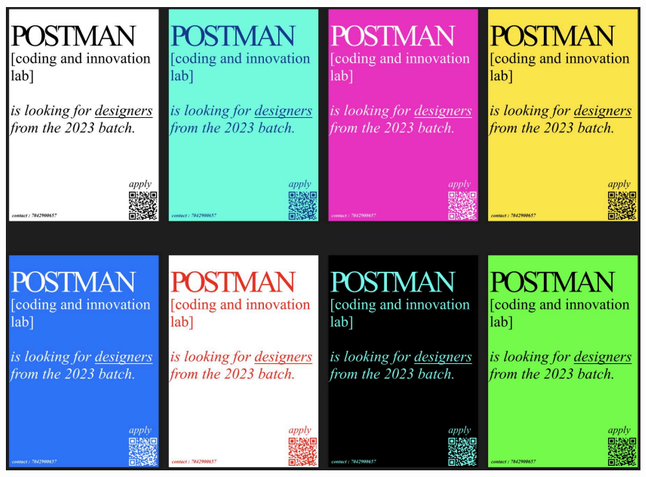
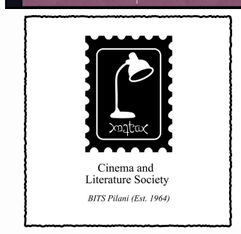
so it goes.

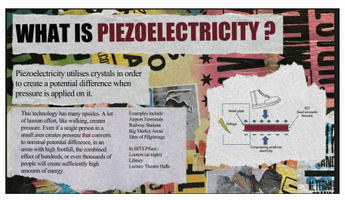


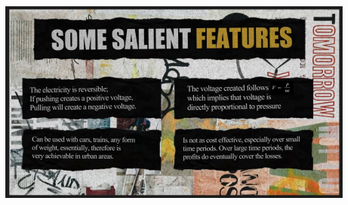












most of these i had designed for a club i was active in at the time. not specifically ordered, but some designs here are much older than others, dating back to my middle school years.

it was a beautiful realisation that my taste has increasingly become more frugal as time went on and i consumed more media.